Pocono Raceway, home to NASCAR's Pocono 500 and Pennsylvania 500 is proud to announce its partnership with Premiere Sports Travel, one of the nation's leading sports travel and hospitality providers, as their preferred travel provider. The partnership will include travel accommodations to all of Pocono Raceway events including the 30th Annual Pocono 500 set for June 12th, 2011 as well as the 38th Annual Pennsylvania 500 set for August 7th, 2011.

The relationship with Premiere Sports Travel will now offer NASCAR fans customized travel and hospitality packages like never before. Premiere Sports Travel's packages will include tickets, hotel accommodations, deluxe motorcoach transportation to and from the track, pit tour passes, a welcome gift as well as twenty-four hour customer service.

Premiere Sports Travel will also provide travel packages from New York City to all Pocono events. "We are especially excited to give our NYC fans an opportunity to attend the Pocono and Pennsylvania 500," said Brandon Igdalsky, President of Pocono Raceway. "Our fans in the City are going to love these packages and the service Premiere provides."

"We are excited to partner with such a top notch facility and team," said Brian Wilder, Executive Vice President of Premiere Global Sports. "No place in racing has more of a family feel than Pocono, thanks to the Mattioli family. This is a fantastic facility for racing."

Pocono Raceway is a fan favorite because of its unique triangular design. There are only three turns, each distinctly different and connected by straight-aways of varying lengths. The track is designed to excite fans and challenge the world's best drivers. During races drivers reach high speeds down a 3,055-foot straight-away which connects to the "tunnel turn," an 8-degree turn over the tunnel leading into the track's infield that is widely considered one of the most difficult in NASCAR. With its combined family atmosphere and unique racing challenges, it's no wonder Pocono Raceway has been a fan destination since 1974.

"Premiere Sports Travel is a proven leader in the industry and are well known for their first-rate service," said Igdalsky. "This partnership will show NASCAR fans that we appreciate their support and want their travel experience to be extremely positive."

The Carbon-Monroe-Pike Employment Coalition is hosting Employment Innovations For People With Disabilities, a one day conference on May 10, 2011, to spotlight the value employers gain by hiring people with disabilities and showcase innovative employment models to individuals with disabilities, employers, students, families, provider staff, vocational rehabilitation counselors, case managers, and other vested stakeholders. The conference will also present current employment options as well as focus on how system transformation can take place.

Michael Fiore, Co-Founder of The Sierra Group, will speak about the humanistic values that workers who have disabilities bring to employers. He will also outline various work incentives to employers and people who receive benefits. Dr. Domenico Cavaiuolo, Professor at East Stroudsburg University, will describe creative work options which can be created for individuals with disabilities. Mary Ohl, who is working on a documentary for the Office of Developmental Programs, will speak about how her son Dennis overcame adversity to gain competitive employment. The conference will conclude with a panel discussion about various local innovative work opportunities at Tobyhanna Army Depot through Burnley Employment & Rehabilitation Services, Human Resources Center, United Rehabilitation Services, and Community Vocational Services. A Peer Specialist will speak about how this service helps individuals maintain jobs. There will be tables with information on the various work options.

The Employment Coalition recognizes that employment is a goal for many young people transitioning out of school and adults with disabilities who have an unemployment rate which quadruple that of those who don't have disabilities. Promoting employment involves collaboration between the business community and the services which support people with disabilities. The goals of this conference are to promote this process so employers see people with disabilities as valuable workers to recruit, and to spark awareness that people with disabilities can lead everyday lives and work just like anybody else.

Registration for Employment Innovations (lunch included) is free. To register, contact Bob Rainey at the Advocacy Alliance at 570-558-3235, toll free at 1-877-315-6855 or email br@theadvocacyalliance.org. Smart Blond Creative opens in Cresco with Metroaction Loan. Kelly Oppelt and Amanda Kuhn have known each other since elementary school and were reunited several years ago while working together at a Monroe County publication and creative services firm. When they were laid off, the compatible duo decided to combine their knowledge and experience to create an agency dedicated to providing affordable design services.

Smart Blond Creative, based in Cresco, Monroe County was recently approved to borrow $15,000 from MetroAction's small business loan program to help with start-up costs including supplies and equipment. MetroAction's loan programs are ideal for both start-up and expanding small businesses that may not be eligible for traditional bank financing.

"Without the loan from MetroAction, we would never have been able to focus on the business full time," says Oppelt. The entrepreneurs also have plans to attend Metro-Action's Small Business Institute where they are looking forward to gaining a better understanding of the financial aspects of owning a business.

MetroAction provides loans up to $200,000. MetroAction is a non-profit community development organization dedicated to providing small-business financing and training throughout northeastern Pennsylvania, including Carbon, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Monroe, Pike, Schuylkill, Susquehanna, Wayne, and Wyoming counties. WEICHERT, REALTORS® - Acclaim President/Owner Charles Marzzacco reports that according to the Weichert, Realtors® weekly "Activity Barometer," the slow real estate recovery appears to be continuing. The report is a collection of customer data from nearly 500 real estate offices nationwide, including customer inquiries to the company's Internet center, and the number of actual visitors to thousands of "enhanced" Open Houses held most every weekend by Weichert's real estate agents across the country.

"We're the only organization I know of that gathers and assesses such information," noted Martin Rueter, president of Weichert Real Estate Affiliates, the company's franchise arm, "It's our way of reliably predicting the actual number of home sales over the next several months. Our management systems allow us to compile such data, and respond to either positive or negative trends. So far, consumers have clearly resurfaced. Web traffic is way up, our phones are ringing, and our Open Houses are having an increasing flow of visitors."

As of February, customer inquiries to the Weichert Lead Network (WLN) were up 85% over all of 2010. Totals for all of 2010 were up 56% over 2009. All in all, WLN has sent out over 1,000,000 qualified leads to its sales associates since its formation in 2002. The WLN sends leads directly to its agents from consumers who call or email Weichert's one-of-a-kind Customer Care Center after viewing listings online. The system enables customers and agents to be connected "live" within minutes from anywhere in the country. According to the National Association of REALTORS®, nearly 90 percent of buyers use the Web during home search.

Hitwise®, which monitors the activity of major Web sites, showed that www.Weichert.com had more than 3.1 million visits in January, ranking the site 19th out of 2,000 real estate sites for the month, and third among real estate brokerage sites. This latest ranking places Weichert.com above many larger national real estate companies.

In addition to Internet traffic, Weichert also gathers visitor data at its thousands of weekend Open Houses. Customer visits have increased consistently. The February 12-13 tallies showed that attendance overall during that weekend was up 24% compared to same time last year, and the average per open house attendance up 44%.
