Conquer Math This Summer with Sylvan Learning's "Forward to School" Algebra Challenge Algebra Challenge Prepares Students and Parents for the Upcoming School Year

Each summer, parents worry that their children will forget everything they learned during the school year. To encourage math learning and discovery outside of the classroom, Sylvan Learning, North America's leading provider of in-center and live, online tutoring at home to students of all ages, grades and skill levels, is offering Sylvan's "Forward to School" Algebra Challenge for parents and teens. Beginning August 17, 2009, parents and teens can participate in this sweepstakes at www.SylvanChallenge.com. The challenge will run for the remainder of the summer and will end on September 30, 2009.

"The summer months can be a perfect time to practice and improve math skills," said Judy A. Brown, Mathematics Program Manager for Sylvan Learning. "Algebra is crucial to a teen's success; mastering algebraic concepts inherently leads to greater success in high school mathematics and, eventually, to greater success in college and a career. We believe this fun and interactive contest will not only help middle and high school students and their parents improve their math skills, but it will also prove to be a stimulating summer activity that offers the chance to win great back-to-school prizes."

During this time of the year, families are looking for ways to save money on back-to-school supplies and are in need of scholarship opportunities.

By participating in Sylvan's Algebra Challenge, local parents and students can win instant prizes including gift cards to Starbucks, Amazon.com, and Target; Texas Instruments graphing calculators; laptops and subscriptions to SylvanMathPrep.com - a new, online math resource for families of students in grades seven through twelve that features on-the-spot math guidance during homework time. Additionally, the winner of the first prize package will receive a $5,000 college scholarship, laptop, subscription to SylvanMathPrep.com and a graphing calculator. And, the grand prize winner will receive a $10,000 scholarship and a yearlong subscription to SylvanMathPrep.com!

Sylvan's Algebra Challenge has two elements. The first section is open to teens hoping to improve and retain their algebra skills. The other section engages parents hoping to revive some of their long-lost math skills so they can become a better resource for their children during homework time in the new school year.

"We understand how challenging math - particularly algebra - can be for middle and high school students, and parents are always searching for answers to help their kids. Sylvan's 'Forward to School' Algebra Challenge was created as a motivational tool to help students learn and understand math, and be prepared for the upcoming school year," said Joseph Munson of the Sylvan Learning located in Bartonsville.

Students and parents earn entries into Sylvan's Algebra Challenge by answering a daily, multiple choice math question, with additional entries for correct answers and referring friends. The Algebra Challenge questions target the concepts taught in middle and high school classrooms. Students and their parents can enter the sweepstakes once a day.

To register for Sylvan's "Forward to School" Algebra Challenge, visit www.SylvanChallenge.com.

Camelbeach Mountain Waterpark is thrilled to announce an unprecedented event. On Saturday, September 12, 2009, Camelbeach will host a "Girls Only" extravaganza. Seriously, outside of a few male lifeguards and staff members this will be a "Girls Only" event. While the waterpark attractions will be available, the day promises to be much more than traditional day at the 'beach. In addition to the novelty and fun, the event has a real purpose. Camelbeach Mountain Waterpark has selected Women's Resources of Monroe County as the beneficiary of the day's efforts. While raising much needed funds, Camelbeach hopes to spotlight awareness and advance Women's Resources mission to end domestic violence and sexual assault for all women, children, and men in our community. The goal of the day is simple: relax, indulge, educate and empower.

In keeping with the spirit of the day, Camelbeach Mountain Waterpark is reaching out to community partners to develop a comprehensive program that celebrates the grace and strength all women channel as they navigate through a unique set of challenges, opportunities and responsibilities.

To balance a slate of wellness workshops, health screenings and educational seminars, Camelbeach plans on maintaining the fun as well; perhaps manis & pedis under a palm tree, yoga alongside the wavepool, and a fashion show. Programming will be designed to be cross-generational so that friends, daughters, nieces, sisters, aunts, mothers and grandmothers can enjoy a fabulous day together.

This "Girls Only" day at Camelbeach Mountain Waterpark is scheduled from 11:00 am to 5:00 pm on Saturday, September 12, 2009. More details, including pricing and a more complete outline of events will be posted on camelbeach.com as the day approaches.

This special event to benefit Women's resources of Monroe County will be the capstone to Camelbeach Mountain Waterpark's "Big Give." Camelbeach Mountain Waterpark's "Big Give" has been a season long campaign to raise $50,000 in support of local charities. In short, over the course of the 2009 summer season, Camelbeach Mountain Waterpark has hosted five different events, each benefiting a different local organization. The highlight of these events has been the waterpark's take on the traditional rubber duck race. These races have been graciously supported by numerous partners. By purchasing a duck for $20 patrons have received a great swag bag full of gift certificates and coupons to local businesses valued at over $100. 100% of the proceeds from these races have been donated to the selected organizations. The other beneficiaries have been Operation Military Kids, The Fine Arts Discovery Series at The Sherman Theater, The Lupus Foundation of Pennsylvania, and The Pocono Medical Center.

During the demonstration at the gallery you will be taught how to solder two pieces of glass together using foil tape, solder and patience. The end result will be something that you can use as a pin or necklace. Pre-register via e-mail to be entered into a drawing to win one of Pat's original pieces.
